County Ranks High In Use Of Lime

Slightly more than one-quarter million tons of agricultural lime was used in Kentucky during 1942, according to the College of Agriculture. The record shows Caldwell county ranked third in agricultural lime used, with an average of 1.58 tons an acre during the last 18 years. Caldwell and Lenoir counties are the only two with a higher tonnage per acre.

County Agent J. F. Grubbs said Kentucky has for the past few years used more than double the amount of agricultural lime than other states. He said the reason is due to a number of contributing factors, one of which is the beginning of soils work in the state. Kentucky Experiment Station, use of agricultural lime has been emphasized as one of the first essentials of a soil improvement program.

Kiwanis, Rotary Sponsor Rodent Eradication Here

U. S. Specialist Will Make Survey Friday;
City Promises To Aid
War On Rats

Representatives of Princeton Kiwanis and Rotary clubs, sponsoring a rodent elimination campaign here, won quick approval for a promise of a cash contribution from the City Council at Monday night's regular meeting, and steps were taken immediately.

W. D. Armstrong, Kiwanis president, for a survey of the situation, reported especially bad conditions in the downtown food stores.

C. Whitehead, rodent control specialist of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, will be here Friday to conduct the survey.

Several grocery stores and numerous householders have reported material damage by rats during the winter and, with the season facing a severe drain on food supplies, the two service groups were appealed to looking toward eradicating the rodents and preventing this loss, Mr. Armstrong said.

It is estimated, Mr. Armstrong said, that 1,200 pounds of bait, costing approximately $600, would be needed.

Humsey Taylor Is Chosen Chairman

Of PTA Recreational
Project At Organization Meeting

Humsey Taylor was chosen chairman of the Parent-Teachers Association project for a recreational program for children of all ages at a meeting held in the library of Butler High School Tuesday night. Other members of the executive committee named were Mrs. J. D. Alexander, C. A. Horn, Mrs. Paul Cunningham and the Rev. John Fox.

A questionnaire, to be presented to school pupils in an effort to learn what kind of a program they would like, was approved. The committee will meet at Butler High Tuesday night, Feb. 22, to investigate various phases of the project.

Marked enthusiasm was expressed by about 15 persons present at Tuesday night's meeting all of who pledged support. The consensus was the movement must develop carefully and with well planned objectives. Necessity of enlisting aid of the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, church young people's organizations, civic clubs and school board if the project is to be a success, was stressed by speakers.

Home Fronters Urged To Give More Books For Army Camps

An easy chore, and at the same time one which is increasingly important in the victory program, is urgently stressed this week by Army officials who are calling upon home fronters to supply books for the rapidly expanding forces in training in camps throughout the country.

Miss Mary Wilson Eldred is in charge of this campaign here and will collect such books as Princetonians will give.

So rapid has been the expansion of the armed forces, Army heads state, that it has been impossible to supply books for reading rooms at the new camps and receiving stations, the number of which is still growing steadily.

Farmers Get $32,619 As 1942 AAA Payments

Approximately 75 Caldwell farmers have received $32,619.53 as payments for practices carried out under the 1942 Agricultural Conservation Association and as special allotment payments. A large percentage of farmers who took all materials in 1942 will not receive checks. Seven percent has been established for Caldwell County as the rate of deduction for administrative expenses of the AAA Association, chargeable against the 1942 program year.

New Vocational Workshop To Be Built For Butler

Gymnasium Will Get
New Floor After School Is Out, Board
Chairman Says

Plans have been completed, and blueprints prepared for construction this spring of a vocational training workshop for Butler High School, to be built in the southeast corner of the lost, adjacent to the athletic field, Walter Towery, chairman of the board of education, said Tuesday. The work is expected to begin as soon as weather permits.

As announced in The Leader last month, the board had planned to put a new hardwood floor in the school's gymnasium and to otherwise improve this for basketball and other forms of physical education, but such improvement has been of necessity postponed because the gymnasium is being used for an auto mechanics course now, and no other place could be found for this instruction, vital to the war effort, Mr. Towery said.

When school is out, Mr. Towery said, and the auto mechanics' classes cease in the gym, the planned improvements there will be made. Hardwood material is already on hand for flooring.

Silk Hose And Kitchen
Fats Wanted At Stores

Housewives of Princeton were being advised by Civilian Defense block leaders this week concerning what is wanted in the salvaged collection scheduled for Friday, Feb. 19, when city trucks will pick up tin cans, J. L. Groom, salvage chairman, said Monday.

Tin cans must have tops and bottoms cut out, then be flattened and placed in convenient places for trucks. Discarded silk and nylon hose should be taken to stores, for forwarding to processing plants where they will be made into powder bags, Mr. Groom said.

Kitchen fats also are wanted, to go into explosives, the chairman said. Fats are to be taken to grocery stores by housewives, who will be paid four cents a pound for this salvage.

30 BELOW RECORDED IN PRINCETON DURING STORM 44 YEARS AGO

Princeton had a little winter last Saturday, with scattering snowflakes which quickly disappeared; but it wasn't anything compared with the same calendar day in 1899, Cheatham Morse, Farmersville, proved when he brought to The Leader office a copy of the Louisville Dispatch for February 1, of that year, which reported this city had a temperature of 30 degrees below zero. The entire Nation shivered in the grip of a blizzard which, the newspaper said, was "the most destructive storm ever known in this country." Many old-timers state emphatically "We don't have winters now like those of 40 or 50 years ago."

Feb. 22 Is Deadline For Farm Machinery Applications Here

Morse, J. J. Koon and C. E. George. The committee will review all applications after February 22, deadline for filing, Mr. George announced.

Red Cross Chapter Is Reorganized

All Departments Now
Functioning With Volunteer Workers

Reorganization of departmental chairmanships of the local chapter of the American Red Cross has been effected and all departments are functioning with volunteer workers, who receive no cash remuneration for their services, chairman John Ed Young announced this week.

Mrs. J. J. Rosenthal is the new chairman of Home Service, succeeding Mrs. Barney Jones, resigned, who was elected to the chairmanship following resignation of Mrs. Percy Pruett.

Mrs. W. C. Sparks is chairman of Surgical Dressings, succeeding Mrs. Rosenthal. Mrs. J. D. Alexander is chairman of Production, succeeding Mrs. A. G. Hubbard, vice-president of the chapter.

The campaign to raise $3,500, the chapter's quota for war purposes, will be conducted during the month of March, with Frank G. Wood as chairman.

25 New Workers Making Bandages

Army Appeals For Quick Shipment of 40,000 Dressings

Twenty-five new workers have helped make bandages for wounded fighting men of U. S. forces at the local Red Cross surgical dressing project since January 1, Mrs. W. C. Sparks, chairman, said Tuesday, but more workers are needed and women must come oftener to the workroom if the county quota is to be produced. Another urgent appeal for quick shipment of 40,000 dressings was received this week.

Workers have put in 5,880 hours making the dressings, Mrs. Sparks said, with 276 women taking part since the project was started here.

New workers since January 1: Mesdames E. E. Bagshaw, Hilary Barnett, Herman Brown, Carney Chambers, E. M. Childress, H. M. Dunn, W. D. Egbert, I. C. Glover, Tula Goodwin, Clyde Hamby, Grayson Harralson, Hearne Harralson, George Hawkins, C. H. Jaggars, Henry Keeney, Urey Lamb, Jim K. McLin, Ed McLin, Hugh Martin, Ray Martin, Hewlett Morgan, L. A. Mrs. R. B. Ratliff Attends Presbyterian Meeting

Mrs. R. B. Ratliff attended an all-day meeting of the Logan, Princeton and Louisville Presbyteries at Hopkinsville Tuesday. Purpose of the meeting was to make plans for the Young Peoples' Conference to be held at Blue and Gray State Park, Elkton, the week of June 7.

Princeton schools will be dismissed Monday, all day, C. A. Horn, superintendent, said, and will hold only half-day sessions Tuesday and Wednesday, so that teachers may aid in issuing of ration books. County schools will be dismissed all day Monday and Tuesday, Supt. E. F. Blackburn said, and Fredonia school will dismiss all day Monday and Tuesday, for the registration there.

Volunteer workers who assisted in previous ration book work will again give their services, Mr. Horn said, and any others who will lend aid are urgently requested to contact either Mr. Horn or the ration board office, in the courthouse.

A responsible member of each household is required to go to his or her nearest place of registration and get a No. 2 book for each member of the family. No books will be issued unless applicants have brought one of the declaration forms, properly filled out, and their old Ration Book No. 1, ration board officials warned Wednesday. The declaration form is printed in this issue of The Leader and copies also may be obtained at grocery stores and the ration office.

Persons applying for War Ration Book No. 2, without properly prepared declaration forms and their Ration Book No. 1, will be turned away without the new Book No. 2, officials said.

Groceries to be rationed will be "frozen" for sale from February 21, through March 1, during which period canned and bottled fruits, vegetables, juices, canned soups, frozen fruits and vegetables and dried fruits cannot be purchased at stores.

Display Only Highest Gas Ration Sticker, Motorists Are Advised

Motorists are advised by OPA gasoline rationing headquarters that they should display, on rear windshields, only the highest sticker to which they are entitled. Many cars here are carrying A and B and A and C stickers, some on front and others at rear. The correct method of displaying only the maximum gas allowance sticker aids in preventing confusion, OPA instructions state.

Two Facts Emerge

Out of the welter of conflicting statements from Washington which latterly have had ordinary citizens of this community in a daze, two facts emerged with clarity this week: Income tax returns must be prepared by March 15, Ruml or no Ruml, and there is no such thing as permanent deferment from the draft, on account of dependents or essential war jobs.

Congress has decided nothing about war taxes, altho virtually all authorities are agreed some pay-as-you-go plan will be adopted. This however will not be done in time to obviate filing a return now, to cover the first quarterly payment due March 15.

As to the draft, both General Herschey and Manpower Boss McNutt have stated the case bluntly and plainly: The armed forces must be served first, and adequately. So that men of this community who have been planning hasty entry into war work in order to forestall induction for military duty might just as well take their chances with Selective Service, first as last.

Home Town Merchant Deserves Your Trade

With gasoline rationing keeping many dollars at home which formerly went far afield in trade, Princeton merchants, who today invite attention to the first Dollar Days event of 1943, still have one major concern about money earned here going elsewhere . . . and this lies in the huge volume of business sent to mail order houses via the postoffice.

There is no doubt the big catalogs, still sent out by the larger mail order houses in tremendous volume to residents of Princeton and the county, hold charms irresistible to many housewives, yes and to their men-folk too; but, as we come more and more to realize that the home merchant deserves our business for the services he renders, all other things being about equal, this sending of home-earned dollars away, for keeps, should decline.

The home merchant helps support the city, county and State governments by his taxes. He employs home folk and they, in turn, pay taxes, buy here and lend themselves to all community enterprises. His stock is always there for buyers to inspect and he is there to make his merchandise good, if any question arises after a sale is made. He lives neighbor to us, shares our ambitions, hopes, joys and sorrows . . . In short, he is home folks and his problems are ours . . . especially that of making Princeton and Caldwell county a good place in which to live.

Dollar Days are calculated to call attention to the variety and value of merchandise offered here at home, to promote trade in Princeton, to build this community; and every good citizen should be interested, today perhaps as never before, in helping to effect as many sales in local stores as possible, to the end that Princeton will have good merchandise offered here throughout this war emergency and afterward.

Making Our Community Home-Conscious

Wars perform one useful service, in civilization's ultimate plan, since they bring human beings into closer association in the home . . . recognized through the ages as the basic unit of any civilization worth preserving.

And, here in Princeton, we are fortunate in having the Princeton Federal Savings and Loan Association doing a thoroughly sincere and highly beneficial job of making this community home-conscious at this momentous crossroad in the world's history.

The local Savings and Loan Association recently closed a remarkable year, in view of the fact that priorities and curtailments on new buildings became effective early in 1942, following the rude shock of Pearl Harbor. C. M. Wood, secretary, says war economy has not as yet had any effect upon city and suburban real estate sales hereabouts and the association disbursed its regular 4 percent dividend, amounting to $8,000, and invested $10,000 more in War Bonds, bringing its total in such securities to $40,000.

As evidence of the fact that institutions such as Princeton's home loan association are held in high regard by those in topmost places, President Roosevelt sent a message to the 50th annual meeting in Chicago recently of the United States Savings and Loan League, of which the local unit is a member, in which he declared, in part:

"You have the unique satisfaction of knowing that your institutions' business of financing homes over a period of 100 years has contributed inestimably to your country's strength. A nation of home owners, of people who own a real share in their own land, is unconquerable. Since the nation's danger first became apparent, savings and loan associations have used their resources and experience in the service of their country. I refer not only to your contributions in providing thousands upon thousands of homes for war workers and in aiding the sale of war Bonds, but to the manner in which you have supported the vital measures to protect our national economy."

Since a large majority of Americans believe the home is responsible largely for what is good or bad in our social structure, and since home owners are generally citizens who aspire and work toward better standards, Princeton is fortunate in possessing this agency, which has contributed much toward helping many of her people to realize one of life's best ambitions . . . the owning of their homes.

For Tomorrow's Citizens

Every parent in Princeton should be vitally interested in the Parent-Teachers Association's proposal to organize here a well conducted, properly supervised recreational center for children. Many are, as was evidenced at Tuesday night's meeting.

Our youngsters are tomorrow's citizens.

Certainly, we owe it to these children who must eventually cope with an uncertain future which seems certain to bring enormous burdens, to make life happy, healthy and interesting, so that their physical development, at least, may be full.

Look about you and note the distressing effects of war upon adults, most of whom are so busy and so worried with trying to meet the exigencies of today's difficult world, they have given scant consideration to how the complexities engendered by global conflict are affecting our young folk.

This is indeed a matter no parent will want to shirk; and if through the efforts of a few leaders, Princeton can obtain a modern recreation center, supervised by trained personnel, we think the investment and the effort required with pay large and cumulative dividends the great value of which it would be very difficult now to estimate.

Propaganda Unrationed

The administration has started curtailing the use of all kinds of paper, Representative Bradley of Michigan tells the House. And he expresses doubt "that many of the newspapers are aware of this."

One thing the newspapers are not aware of: that any of the Federal bureaus have curtailed their own use of paper for propaganda and self-ballyhoing purposes. If anything, the masses of "news" releases, statements, articles and expensive publications, with which the government agencies bombard the newspaper editors daily, are swelling in volume.

Most of this tripe can serve no possible purpose connected with the winning of the war; its real aim is to "sell" and perpetuate the bureaus and departments that send the stuff out.

If Washington's output of publicity junk were cut only in half, there would be no paper shortage and no call for reduction of the use of newsprint to the point of putting many newspapers out of business—a result of which Representative Bradley expressed fear.

If the bureaucrats contend that their publicity matter is more essential to the war effort than the newspapers are, the latter can reply that at least people want newspapers and read them, whereas 90 percent of the administration "literature" goes into the waste basket after an appraising glance from editorial eyes.

If the newspapers of this country would run one-tenth of the publicity drive they receive from the government agencies for publication, they would exhaust the Nation's supply of paper in a month—if they did not go bankrupt first.—(Houston, Texas, Post).

—Odd But Science—
Tin Cans Salvage Lost Copper

By H. W. Blakeslee
Associated Press Features
Blackland Army Flying School, Waco, Texas.—Here's a tin fish of another sort.

Like the submarine it is a war fish. It is a process of using tin to fish for copper, which is described by Maj. James P. Butcher, commanding officer of Blackland Field quartermaster department.

The tin fish are made at Blackland Field, out of their old cans. As do the housewives with cans, the Army men wash and flatten the tins. Scraps and shreds and pieces of these cans are thrown into a vat containing waste copper.

This waste is copper lost in the smelting process and ordinarily diverted to streams to get rid of it. In the vat an electroplating current is turned on. This causes the copper in the pool to electroplate upon the pieces of tin.

One and a half tons of tin, says Major Butcher, will thus fish up and plate on itself one ton of copper. The copper thus gathered is removed. It is moreover of greater purity than the original product from the smelter.

Another reason, says the Major, for everyone to salvage tin cans.

Don't Spread It!

When were you last vaccinated against small pox? I hope you're able to say, "Within the last five years," but the chances are that instead, your reply, is "When I was a child, I suppose," or perhaps, "My first year in college." Either answer means that you need re-vaccination.

The campaign for immunization and vaccination of all babies and preschool children has been so successful that most American children are protected against both small pox and diphtheria, both for some reason we have failed to appreciate that injections must be repeated periodically since artificial immunity is not permanent.

The Schick test determines whether or not it is necessary to have an additional injection of diphtheria toxoid. Go to your private doctor, school or department of health for this service. Include all members of your family who have not been immunized during the past five years.

Immunization can be given for only a few diseases—small pox, diphtheria, typhoid and scarlet fever. Many childhood diseases are most communicable before the symptoms appear. Protection against these diseases consists of securing adequate rest and nutrition to build up resistance, avoiding public places during epidemics, immediately isolating a sick person within the home, with precautions taken with regard to washing the hands and wearing special apron while caring for him.

For some of the communicable diseases such as mumps, and whooping cough, serum is available, which many doctors advise using in time of epidemic. It is thought to lessen the severity of the illness, if given after exposure. Many contagious diseases begin with the symptoms of a common head cold—earache, running eyes, general aches and pains, nasal discharge. This is one of the best of all reasons for putting a child with a cold to bed and isolating him. The symptoms which distinguish one disease from another appear later. If the cold proves to be the fore-runner of a communicable disease keep the patient in bed and continue to isolate him, both to prevent spread of the disease and to protect him from complications which may be serious.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

TWO GREAT AMERICANS

This month we celebrate the birthdays of two of our greatest Americans, George Washington and Abraham Lincoln.

These two men had little in common except their love for America and their determination to build and preserve a nation founded upon freedom and equality.

They started life under widely different conditions, but both arose to the highest office of our country. In this they typify the American Way of Life. Under the American system of free enterprise, you and your children, no matter whether you are rich or poor, have equal opportunity to succeed in life to the full extent of your ability. No other nation on earth can say truthfully that its citizens have the same opportunity.

Freedom of enterprise is possible only under our democratic form of government. Under it, we Americans enjoy the highest standard of living, the highest wages and the most liberties and conveniences of any nation in the world.

Only with freedom of enterprise could the United States have become so fully the "Arsenal of Democracy." Our war effort makes the efforts of national-socialistic, or dictatorship, nations seem weak and inefficient. The present war has exploded the old myth of totalitarian efficiency.

But in spite of all this, there are some people in America who want to scrap freedom of enterprise and replace it with political control of all business and industry. Let's keep the system which has given every American so much and made our nation the strongest on earth!

The men in our armed services greatly need books for leisuretime reading. For the Victory Book Campaign, send those you have most enjoyed . . . both fact and fiction, but not dull old stuff. If you wish to leave books at our local office, we will promptly forward them to the Victory Book Committee.

Japanese Beaten In Two Sectors Of Pacific Front

(A WEEK OF THE WAR)

Washington.—The Battle for Guadalcanal, which ended at sundown Wednesday, Feb. 10, represents a complete American victory. Just six months after the Marines' initial invasion of the island, American forces surrounded the last remaining Japanese, captured large amounts of armaments and equipment, and took unchallenged control of the entire island. Conclusion of the fighting was announced by Maj. Gen. Alexander Patch, commander of American forces in the Solomons.

Strategy which forced Japanese capitulation was described by Secretary of War Stimson. A flanking movement was carried out at sea with naval support, and U. S. army forces were landed at the northwest tip of the island. After this landing, accomplished about February 4-5, the Japanese were pinned on a 15-mile strip of beach near Cape Esperance. The American forces which landed west of the Japanese and other American troops approaching overland from the east, joined February 9, at Cape Esperance after overcoming the Japanese forces.

Value of this victory was outlined recently by Secretary of the Navy Knox, has both negative and positive value. It brings U. S. forces within striking distance of some of Japan's most important bases, and it denies to the Japanese the opportunity to raid U. S. communications in the area.

But Guadalcanal is not the only victory the U. S. has won in the South Pacific. A little better than two weeks ago, General MacArthur announced crushing of the last organized enemy resistance in Papua, New Guinea, and Papua became the first complete geographical unit to be won back from the Japanese.

Since that time, U. S. forces have been moving north along the northeastern coast to New Guinea, preparing for the next step in the campaign—the battle of the Huon Gulf. Thursday, Feb. 11, a communique from General MacArthur's headquarters reported that Allied troops, charging under cover of a heavy artillery barrage, hurled the main Japanese force six miles back in the Wau region of the northeastern New Guinea front, inflicting one of the severest setbacks the Japanese have had since they moved against Wau airdrome from Mubo, approximately 23 miles to the north-east.

Air warfare continues in the Pacific, with U. S. Army and Navy planes attacking Munda on New Georgia Island, Celebes in the Dutch East Indies, Kolombangara Island in the New Georgia group, and Kiska in the Aleutians. A new Dutch squadron is now operating with General MacArthur's air forces. Last week this squadron was part of a formation that sank or damaged six Japanese ships and shot down five or six intercepting planes in a series of shattering attacks on an 1,800-mile front covering the entire Australian zone. Several of these raids were aimed at Dubu, Jap-

War Rules Take All Free Papers Off Mailing List

WPB, In Rationing Order, Limits Press Run To "Net Paid Circulation"

Because there have been, for many years here, numerous abuses of good newspaper ethics and literally hundreds of copies of local newspapers have been given away each publication day, there is still some misunderstanding locally concerning the strict regulations of WPB, under which all newspapers now must operate.

Among unethical customs here has been the practice of placing names of all advertisers, whether regular or only once or twice a year users of space, on the complimentary subscription list. Good newspaper practice calls for each advertiser to be furnished proof of publication, either by sending him a copy of the paper carrying his advertisement or by presenting a tear sheet containing his display.

Recently The Leader took from its mailing list, names of a number of local business places and all national advertising agencies except those advertising every week. This is in accordance both with proper newspaper practice and with the war time regulations of WPB, governing conservation of print paper.

According to WPB, all papers, regardless of size, are affected by the order to discontinue for the duration of the war, distribution of sample papers for "campaigns for new subscribers, the distribution of sample papers for promotion work, or other non-essential uses."

The Leader is restricted in printing newspapers to only such number as is sufficient for its "Net Paid Circulation," and WPB regulations state, "Net paid circulation" means the sales of a publisher's newspaper audited, or otherwise verified, in accordance with the standards of the Audit Bureau of Circulation.

Optometrists primarily render professional services to the eyes of their patients. Their professional services consist of examination and refraction of eyes. Optometrists examine eyes for the purpose of determining whether or not ocular disturbances prevail and whether or not spectacles are necessary. Congressmen See Victory For Demos

One Kentucky Congressman came out flatly for J. Lyter Donaldson last week as Democratic nominee for Governor and several others, discounting Republican victory claims said: "No matter who the candidates are" Democrats will retain control of the State.

Representative Brent Spence, Democrat, of Fort Thomas, said emphatically: "I feel that Mr. Donaldson can win and that he can beat any Republican in the State. I am for Mr. Donaldson. You can quote me. I don't mind being committed 'in favor of Donaldson.'"

Representative Spence, Virgil Chapman, Beverly Vincent and Andrew J. May said there has been no meeting of the Kentucky delegation so far as they knew to discuss a choice for Democratic nominee.

"I have no doubt that the Democrats will elect the next Governor and full State ticket and maintain their control of both houses of the legislature," Chapman said. Vincent said Republican gains in some states do not mean a Republican victory in Kentucky. "Regardless of what Democrat is nominated," he

Homemakers Help Hasten Victory

How homemakers can hasten the day of victory is stressed by Miss Myrtle Weldon. State leader of home demonstration work. Waste and extravagance are enemies because they bring shortages and raise prices, she declares.

Miss Weldon's suggestions include preventing waste in the preparation of food, such as in peelings, in cooking water and in burned food. She would make the best use of the oven by baking several foods at a time. Prepare foods so there won't be any left-overs, and serve appetizing, well-balanced meals, are other suggestions.

Brushing, airing, pressing and cleaning will extend the service of clothing, notes this homemaking authority. Careful mending and remaking are tricks to be proud of, she says. When one must buy, let quality be the guide, and buy with care.

Clean and repair upholstering and otherwise care for home furnishings, for they may have to last a long time, adds Miss Weldon.

Ex-Princetonian Is Sales Expert

"The Dawson System of Sales Training," an advertisement of which appears elsewhere in this issue of The Leader, was originated by W. W. Dawson, youngest brother of W. D. "Deacon" Dawson, local druggist, and is claimed to be the best course in training for salesmanship yet devised.

W. W. Dawson, reared in Princeton, now lives and has his business at Kansas City, Mo. His current series of advertisements is directed to parents of men in the armed forces, and seeks to offer such men a course of training which will help them get ahead in business when they return, after the war.

Numerous testimonials from sales managers, heads of large manufacturing concerns and salesmen who have tried the course all testify to its superiority and benefit to them in a brochure received by The Leader.

He said, "The Democrats will win by 75,000. I don't see any trouble in Kentucky."

Council Asked To Buy Equipment For Fire Department

Councilman J. H. Morgan and Dr. C. F. Engelhardt, who attended a firemen's school at Paducah last week, reported at Monday night's session of City Council and recommended purchase of additional fire fighting equipment in order to make the Princeton Fire Department more efficient. The matter was referred to a special committee.

President W. D. Armstrong, of the Princeton Kiwanis Club, was before the council relative to a campaign to exterminate rats. The matter was referred to a committee, Councilmen Morgan, Lacey and Quinn, for consideration.

Complaints regarding pool playing by minors were given consideration and the police department was instructed to investigate.

Attention was called to the fact that 5 years had elapsed since Princeton Stockyards were established and therefore free water service had expired. Bills for water service were ordered, beginning in March.

The session was attended by Councilmen Hammonds, Jones, Lacey, Morgan and Quinn with Mayor Cash in the chair.

Mrs. Lemah Hopper and little son, of Evansville, Ind., spent Saturday here with relatives.
